Arbitration

PLEASE READ THIS CAREFULLY. IT AFFECTS YOUR RIGHTS.

A. General. You and Berkeley College agree that any and all disputes, claims (including claims brought under the Telephone Consumer Protection Act, 47 U.S.C. 227 et. seq. ("TCPA")), controversies, or cause of action between you and Berkeley College or Berkeley College's employees, agents, representatives, successors, or assigns, arising out of or relating to these Terms and Conditions or the Service (collectively, the "Claims") shall be solely and finally resolved by binding arbitration. This agreement to arbitrate includes all Claims, whether based in contract, tort, statute, or any other legal theory, and regardless of when a claim arises. BY AGREEING TO THESE TERMS AND CONDITIONS, YOU AND BERKELEY COLLEGE ARE EACH WAIVING THE RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY, THE RIGHT TO HAVE ANY DISPUTES DECIDED BY A JUDGE IN A COURT OF LAW AND THE RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN A CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE, OR COLLECTIVE PROCEEDING. YOU UNDERSTAND THAT YOU ARE CHOOSING BINDING ARBITRATION AS THE SOLE METHOD TO RESOLVE ALL CLAIMS AND THAT THE ARBITRATOR'S AWARD IS FINAL AND BINDING, WITH VERY LIMITED RIGHTS TO APPEAL.

B. Difference Between Arbitration and Courtroom Trials. Arbitration is an alternative dispute resolution process where the disputing parties agree to present their case to a neutral third party, known as an arbitrator, who listens to the evidence, considers the arguments from both sides, and renders a binding decision. Arbitration can be quicker and less formal than traditional courtroom trials, with cases often resolved in a matter of months rather than years. Due to its expedited and flexible process, arbitration can be less expensive than courtroom trials, with fewer strict legal procedures to follow. Arbitration proceedings are usually private, providing confidentiality for sensitive matters. Parties can choose arbitrators with specific expertise relevant to the dispute, leading to more informed decisions.

Courtroom trials involve the resolution of disputes in a formal judicial setting. A judge or jury hears evidence and arguments from both sides, then issues a legally binding decision. This process is the traditional method of dispute resolution and has a well-defined structure. Courtroom trials follow strict rules of evidence and procedure, ensuring a thorough examination of the case. Trials are public, promoting transparency. Unlike arbitration, courtroom trials offer a formal appeals process, enabling parties to challenge the decision in a higher court.

C. Exceptions. Nothing in these Terms and Conditions will preclude the right of either party to (i) bring an individual (non-representative, non-class) action in small claims court; (ii) pursue an enforcement action through a federal, state, or local agency with the authority to seek relief against Berkeley College on your behalf; or (iii) file suit in a court of law to address an intellectual property infringement claim.

- D. Arbitrator. Any arbitration between you and Berkeley College will be governed by the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. 1, et seq. (“FAA”). Unless otherwise agreed by both parties in writing, the Commercial Dispute Resolution Procedures and Supplementary Procedures for Consumer Related Disputes (collectively, “AAA Rules”) of the American Arbitration Association (“AAA”) will apply and be administered by the AAA. The arbitration shall be held in the State of New Jersey, and the judgment on the award may be entered in any court of competent jurisdiction.
- E. Damages and Relief. The arbitrator(s) may award damages and relief (including reasonable attorneys’ fees) as authorized by law and/or the AAA Rules, except the arbitrator(s) shall not be empowered to award punitive and consequential damages.
- F. No Class Proceedings. THIS AGREEMENT PROHIBITS CLASS ACTIONS AND CLASS ARBITRATIONS, EVEN IF OTHERWISE PERMITTED UNDER THE AAA RULES. YOU AND BERKELEY COLLEGE AGREE THAT ANY CLAIMS BROUGHT AGAINST THE OTHER SHALL BE ARBITRATED ON AN INDIVIDUAL BASIS ONLY AND NOT AS PART OF A CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING. FURTHER, YOU AND BERKELEY COLLEGE AGREE THAT THE ARBITRATOR(S) MAY NOT CONSOLIDATE MORE THAN ONE (1) INDIVIDUAL’S CLAIMS.
- G. Other Claims. Any legal proceedings arising out of any Claim that is not subject to arbitration (i) shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey; and (ii) shall be commenced and exclusively maintained in a state or federal court located in the State of New Jersey and the parties hereby consent to jurisdiction and waive any objections to venue in such courts.
- H. Severability. In the event a court of competent jurisdiction declares any provision of these Terms and Conditions to be void, the remaining provisions shall be deemed severed and shall remain enforceable to the full extent permitted by law.

Governing Law

Except as otherwise provided herein, your use of this Service and these Terms and Conditions shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.
